Based on Alan's highly acclaimed book The Buck Starts Here

Accountability is Not a Four Letter Word

What would it be like if everyone in your organization were able to hold themselves accountable? Imagine everyone performing at an optimal level. How would that impact Sales? Productivity? Employee engagement? Customer loyalty? Your personal stress level?

Do Your Employees WANT TO Come To Work?

In a "Want To" culture, everyone in the organization is excited about coming to work. Sound like a fantasy? Not at all. Alan reveals simple, yet powerful principles that have helped hundreds of organizations create an environment where everyone takes ownership in their attitude, productivity, and results.

Customer Testimonials

Alan Dobzinski is an outstanding facilitator. His presentation on the Accountability Factor is the highest rated event offered by the Regional Manufacturing Institute. His solutions are easy to understand and they are win-win strategies that make people feel more valued in the workplace.

Michael Galiazzo, PhD, Executive Director, Regional Manufacturing Institute

The relaxed style of your presentation conveyed the message without being authoritarian. By letting the audience "connect the dots themselves", you led them down a path of self-discovery rather than having them feel as if doctrine were focused upon them. You adeptly illustrated the benefits of coaching through your exercises in the program. Most importantly Alan, you demonstrated how easily the personal and professional lives of attendees can benefit by creating a culture of accountability.

Robert W Bertazon, Executive Director, American Subcontractors Assoc.

Your presentation was informative, meaningful and engaging. People talked about how fast the time went, how realistic and valuable the strategies were, and how they were inspired to be better leaders. I felt the content was a tremendous reinforcement of our work together. And the interaction from the audience added new perspectives from which everyone could benefit. The way you made the program interactive allowed everyone to share and relate effectively with one another. This was very motivating for me personally and strengthened my commitment to improving my own leadership skills. Kim Fabian, Senior Vice President, Junior Achievement of Central Maryland, Inc
